

I don't know if the letter I received was for real or not, but I'm not taking any chances.

KLOVE provides our community with Christian based, family friendly music station. More than just music, it provides positive messages for all of us who listen. I feel like I am a better person because I am able to listen to KLOVE every day. A better wife and mother, a better friend and neighbor. KLOVE ties our community together in so many ways. It affects me in a more positive way than any other type of radio station I have ever listened to. It calms me when I'm in rush hour traffic. It gives me parenting tips, and marriage tips. And most importantly it helps me to put faith and praise into my day, in ways that would otherwise not be available. All of the other stations have songs about sex, drugs and drinking. I don't want my kids to hear that! And more than I don't want them to hear that, I want them to hear the positive message KLOVE sends out constantly.

We Christians have already lost so many opportunities to grow in our faith, and that of our children. Don't take this one away, too! It has done more for myself and my family than I can put into a letter! My son listens to it at night as he goes to sleep. My husband listens to it on his way to work. I listen to it all day long. In my car running errands. In my kitchen making breakfast lunch and dinner. And on my way to and from work each evening. We are all more active in our church and community as a result of the positive messages that KLOVE sends.

If KLOVE were taken away we would have nowhere else to turn for that daily inspiration that I think everybody needs and deserves. KLOVE reminds those listening, perhaps for the first time, that they are a valuable human being, and that their life has meaning and purpose! That goes way above telling us about community events, which it also happens to do. Other stations tell about community events...in between songs teaching our kids that life is about nothing but sex, and that if they aren't 'getting it' then they just aren't 'getting it!' It's hard enough to find something clean on television. Don't make it impossible for us to find it on our radio dial!

Sincerely, Mrs. Erin Mitchell Bollman, wife to Christopher Bollman, proud mother to Nathaniel and Sarah, and unashamed follower of Christ!!
